“Speaking up for the nation’s wild plants”

Mailed to 7,200 Plantlife members
Read by over 20,000 people

Plantlife is the official magazine of conservation charity Plantlife, the organisation speaking up for the nation’s wild plants. The magazine is published three times a year and posted to the charity’s members, supporters and partner organisations who share an interest in conserving wild plants and their habitats.

Plantlife is a conservation charity that . . .

- carries out practical conservation work across the UK.
- helps protect wild plants and builds understanding of the role they play in everyone’s lives.
- manages nature reserves and runs events that connect people with their local wild plants.
- influences policy and legislation.
- is a Lead Partner in the Government’s Biodiversity Action Plan, which targets the UK’s Priority Species and Habitats for conservation action. HRH The Prince of Wales is the charity’s Patron and Philip Mould OBE is the President.

Plantlife magazine provides vital feedback and information about Plantlife’s work, achievements and plans for the future. The magazine is designed to appeal to a diverse audience and helps to give each issue a long life with several readers per copy. Plantlife magazine was twice a BBC Wildlife Award Winner.

Plantlife members . . .

- actively pursue a healthy and sustainable lifestyle.
- regularly buy or grow their own organic food, choose environmentally friendly products and use herbal remedies.
- pursue hobbies and interests including travel, hiking/walking, bird watching, botany, gardening, photography and reading.
- have a high disposable income, with the majority of readers falling into the 45+ age group.
- share a broad interest in conservation, not only of wild plants but of flora and fauna in general.
