Why advertise in the Cable?

“More than ever today I value local journalism and the extra need to platform local voices”

- Gauri, member

An independent newspaper with 15,000 copies
distributed quarterly

The Bristol Cable is our city's independent, investigative media co-op. Support from local members and organisations keeps us independent. Now, we're on the path to sustainability.

Our newspaper

For over a decade, our membership model has allowed us to focus on long-term, groundbreaking investigations rather than breaking news that relies on clicks for revenue. Together, we hold power to account through groundbreaking investigations, campaign for change, and amplify marginalised voices.

Recognition

- 2019 British Journalism Award
- 2 x 2022 Independent Media Association awards
- 2 x nominee for the Orwell Prize for Journalism
- 2 x nominee for the Future of Media Awards

Free

Newspapers can be found at venues all across the city – or through your letterbox as a paying member.

Trusted

From groundbreaking investigations, to election coverage and on the ground reporting, the Bristol Cable is the city's go-to source for proper journalism.

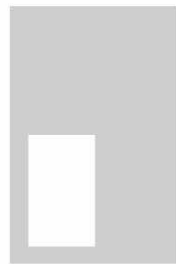

Transparent

Our reporting covers issues around housing, local democracy, culture, crime, social justice, history and community events.

Supporting a local community

“I want to find out more about my local community and hear positive news as well as in depth journalism”

- Carrie, member

Every new supporter helps us continue investigating, delivering proper independent journalism for Bristol.

While marketing your offer to our tens of thousands of local paying members, listeners and readers, you can also deliver unique social value not only by reaching them with your message, but by supporting ours.
